Steps Taken Toward New Student Union

AL PROSS
PRESIDENT

PACIFIC STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

For many years there has been discussion on the Pacific campus regarding the construction of a student union building. In the early 1940's students expressed the desire for a building which would house the book store, a student restaurant, Pacific Student Association offices, numerous lounges, meeting rooms for student organizations and alumni activities, and varied recreational facilities.

Needless to say, after two decades we are without such a structure. This past year, however, the PSA has taken concrete steps toward its eventual realization. The students voluntarily imposed upon themselves, by a vote of 3 to 1, a $2.50 assessment per semester to be allotted toward the construction of the $750,000 structure. Likewise, the faculty has agreed to contribute a similar amount per person toward the building fund. Approximately $10,000 a year is collected through these measures. The PSA, realizing the impracticality of raising the needed $750,000 through these means, has exhausted every financial channel in order to funnel all available funds toward this staggering goal. In June of this year we hope to have $50,000 available.

Students Contribute to the Future

It is important to realize that none of the students who are now paying their $2.50 per semester will be able to utilize the student union except in an alumni capacity. I think this fact alone is quite commendable and typifies the student interest and campus desire for student union facilities.

Since the building will include rooms which will be used by the Alumni Association, Dr. William Cunningham, one of the directors of the association, is an official member of the PSA student union committee. Likewise, Jerry Kirsten, president of the alumni, serves as an ex-officio member of the committee.

President Burns has shown a favorable reaction to the idea of the student union. He has included it within his "15 year and 150 million dollar plan" for the future. Within a relative short period of time we hope to know for sure where it is to be located upon our compact campus, that a definite target date will be set, and that a definite way of financing the structure will be realized.

Fund Council Kickoff Brunch

How can a good thing be made better? By all good Pacific grads coming to the aid of their school, says the Alumni Fund Council.

An opportunity to share in the prestige, the social encounters and the excitement of working with other enthusiastic alumni makes membership in the Pacific Alumni Association a stimulating experience.

An 11:00 o'clock brunch at Grace Covell Dining Hall March 9 has been arranged for present class agents of the Alumni Fund Council and other alumni who would like to become more active and productive participants in building a bright future for Pacific.

Dr. Samuel L. Meyer, academic vice-president, and Edward Harris, director of development for the College of Physicians and Surgeons, will be on hand to give a glimpse into the horizons of our growing university.

It's a family affair, according to Chairman Len Detrick '50. Free box lunches will be provided for spouses and the smaller members of the clan while the brunch is in session. Everyone will be guests of the Stockton Quarterback Club for the 6th Annual Varsity-Alumni football game beginning at 1:30 p.m.

In the past 20 years, graduation classes have doubled and tripled. How soon will the Class Agents organization expand proportionately? The date again is March 9.

PACIFIC ALUMNI DAY

MAY 4

PHIL COMFORT
Chairman

Pacific's annual Alumni Day has been set for Saturday, May 4, according to Phil Comfort, a director of the Pacific Alumni Association and chairman of the day's events.

Building around the theme "The Professional School in the Pacific Picture," the first session, following 2 o'clock registration, will be individual meetings of the professional schools. A sitter service will be available for the afternoon.

Mrs. Clarence Cortez, vice-president of the Alumni Association, is chairman for the reception and awards banquet Saturday evening in Grace Covell Dining Hall. Following the election of alumni directors and officers, recognition will be made of Pacific's outstanding students. Presentation of awards to the outstanding alumnus for service and the distinguished alumnus will climax the program.

Alumni Kids . . . or is it cubs . . .

Pacific's Tigers have such nice cubs. To prove it, let us show you a few.

Tom Honey of Manteca, son of Patricia Smith Honey '55, can trace back in his heritage as far as the San Jose campus where his great aunt, Anah Smith, was a coed. A double tie to Pacific for Tom resulted from the recent acquisition of the College of Physicians and Surgeons in San Francisco. In the year 1904, a budding young dentist by the name of Earl Edmund Smith, a grandfather to the Manteca youth, graduated from that institution.

Christina Sundin, daughter of Theodora Kroeck Sundin '35 of Pleasant Hill, traces her Pacific family to her grandparents, Louis Kroeck '95 and Bertha Graf '04, who were both Stocktonians.

As Norman Keaton II of Stockton identified the Pacific Tigers in his family, including his parents, Norman Keaton '37 and Muriel Van Gilder Keaton '36, the student turned for help. His grandparents, B. I. Van Gilder '31 and Florence Scott Van Gilder '26, were recalled quite easily, but at that point Miss Ellen Deering, registrar, stepped in to help with the name of his aunt, Marion Van Gilder Schroven '29, adding to Norman "You'd better let me spell that name—you'll never get it." Who else but Miss Deering could recall each student, from years gone by, with practically all pertinent details for each!

The Easterbrook family of Redwood Valley seems to continue a never-ending tie to the Pacific campus. Lucy Easterbrook, daughter of Harold C. Easterbrook '34, is maintaining the campus affiliation since her sisters, Frances and Marti '62, have graduated to enter other fields. Her uncles have helped to keep the chain intact. First graduated was Paul Easterbrook '24, then Charles Easterbrook, Sr. '27, and later Charles Jr. '53. A Pacific family in the truest form.

Wendy Hamma of Stockton must have received considerable indoctrination from her parents, Taubner G. '31 and Elizabeth Silsbee Hamma '28, who in turn may have absorbed a little of the Pacific enthusiasm from her mother, Eva Banta Silsbee, Sacramento. Pacific loyalty extended even further to include Wendy's uncles, Roy '35 and Clarence Hamma '31, and an aunt, Mabel Hamma Hurn '39.

Kenneth Beatie '37 and Helen Arbogast Beatie '38, Rough and Ready, are well represented on campus by a son, Gordon, and daughter, Karen. Lauri Tiscornia came all the way from St. Joseph, Michigan, to attend the alma mater of her parents, Lester '32 and Bernice Gilmore Tiscornia '34.

Janet Crummey of San Francisco sends accurate reports home to her father, D. Clifford Crummey '34. Andra Jackson boosts the Pacific image in the Stanford University camp, the address of her father, F. Hale Jackson '35. Susan Rogers, Santa Rosa, is the daughter of another Class of '32 grad, William E. Rogers. Janice Lee Smith is the daughter of Lora Childs Smith '39, who is making her home in Novato.

All the way from Honolulu came Pacific coed Joyce D. Wickersham, daughter of Dorothy Eloise Fish Wickersham '32. Burbank's Lynette Wood is the cub of Tiger Frank Wood '38.

Pacificites are prominent in the family tree of Rollo Parsons, San Jose. Three grandparents, Carrie B. Ivory '95 and N. M. and Helen Beck Parsons, both '02, were active on the Pacific campus long before Rollo's parents, Beck and Charlene Hull Parsons '38 began their college careers.

The pictured alumni children are not necessarily all who are presently on campus, since this information was gathered by asking students to identify themselves as alumni children. The alumni office would appreciate hearing of any omissions.

Parents Are Partners . . .

No single factor in the long, impressive program of progress in American Higher Education has been more important than the concern and support of parents.

In the Pacific program, the parents have shown this to be true to the highest degree, coming to the forefront with cooperation and support, formidable factors in Pacific's progress.

Pacific Parents, nationwide organization of parents of students attending the university, channeled its enthusiasm toward even greater participation in the Pacific program. Enticed by campus-orientated Parents Days and the Parents' Newsletter from the Dean of Students, Parents Committee members set upon a program to organize area meetings in key locations across California and in neighboring states.

Sunday Afternoon Meetings Established

Under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Keller of Martinez, national chairmen, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Patton of San Leandro, national vice-chairmen, a series of Sunday afternoon meetings for interested guests and parents of high school students was begun.

The Edgewater Hotel in Alameda will be the setting for the Alameda County area meeting March 3, under the chairmanship of Dr. and Mrs. Ray C. Nordstrom of San Leandro. Guests will meet informally with University President Robert E. Burns and Donald G. Smiley, the executive director of Pacific Parents.

Parents serving on the planning committee include Mr. and Mrs. Morris Haner, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Stark, Berkeley; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hood, San Lorenzo; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Patton, San Leandro; and Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Henley, Piedmont.

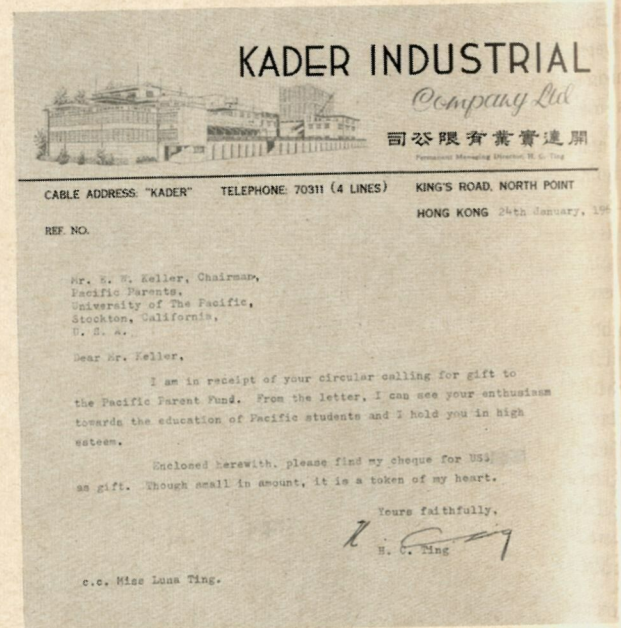

Others who have appeared as area meeting guests from the Pacific campus have included Jess R. Rudkin, assistant to the president; Dr. Elliott J. Taylor, dean of admissions; Dr. Harold S. Jacoby, dean of the College of Liberal Arts; Edgar M. Crigler, director of public relations; Janine and Robert Kreiter, professors of modern languages; Lynn Crigler, student pianist from the Conservatory of Music; Dr. Samuel L. Meyer, academic vice-president; Dr. Edmund T. Peckham, dean of student life, Raymond College; E. Leslie Medford, admissions assistant; Miss Ellen Deering, registrar; Robert R. Winterberg, executive assistant to the president—financial affairs; and Johana Harris, pianist-in-residence.

San Diego Holds First Meeting

Plans for the first area meeting, held November 11 for some 50 San Diego County residents, were spearheaded by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tyson of Chula Vista. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cuddihy of

Parents Can Help

There are many areas in which parents can participate in the University's exciting, progressive program. Help of every kind from parents is particularly appreciated by the University.

Private institutions of higher learning must depend on gifts for much of their support, since tuition and fees do not pay the entire cost of a student's education. At Pacific such gifts are a vital part of its operation. Often a parent's referral to other persons interested in Pacific's future can be the greatest gift of all.

Response in financial help has been encouraging. Pacific Parents have been responsible for gifts for current expenses, furnishings for Pacific's Raymond College, and for scholarships. A recent gift is a much-appreciated microscope. Always, the donor is able to designate the use to be made of his gift and can see the results of his generosity as the years go by.

Pacific Parents CAN and DO help in the Pacific Program.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred D. Peirce, Hillsborough, began the new year with enthusiasm, setting up the January 20 San Mateo County meeting in the home of Countess William Remillard Dandini. Sixty-two guests visited with campus representatives and Pacific Parents, Mrs. Alan Hutchinson and Mrs. John Page, both of San Mateo, who assisted with arrangements.

In Marin County, the home of Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Mackby in Kentfield was opened to more than 50 guests on January 27. Mr. and Mrs. William K. Warnock worked as chairmen with a committee of other Kentfield parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Schreiber and the the host and hostess.

Another recent area meeting was held February 17 for San Francisco County. Dr. and Mrs. Jess Rathbun took the full responsibility for the parent gathering at the Sports Center, Lake Merced Boat House.

In Contra Costa County, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hair, Alamo, chose the Masonic Lodge in Orinda as the locale for their February 24 meeting. Helping with arrangements were Mr. and Mrs. R. Ausfahl of Orinda and Mr. and Mrs. Keller of Martinez.

A meeting is planned for Los Angeles County March 7 in the Social Hall of Westwood Methodist Church, with Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Wheatley as chairmen. Serving on their committee are Rev. and Mrs. W. H.

Merwin, North Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Layman, Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Scott, Santa Monica; Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Soskin and Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz C. Evers of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. William James, Gardena; and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Peterson, Rolling Hills.

Future Meetings Planned

Future meetings, as yet unscheduled, will be planned by committees under the chairmanships of Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield L. Clinnick, San Luis Obispo; Rev. and Mrs. Donald Getty, San Jose; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer H. Gould, Napa; Dr. and Mrs. Fillmore Gray, Carmel; Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Hall, Modesto; Mr. and Mrs. Max Caldwell, Santa Cruz; Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Hinkle, Santa Rosa; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Maxwell, Fresno; Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Peers, Tulare; Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Proudfoot, Sacramento; Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stutzman, Bakersfield; Capt. and Mrs. Wallace Talbot, Jr., Santa Ana; and Mr. and Mrs. James O. Williams, Stockton.

Spring Meeting May 4

Pacific Parents will gather on the campus for their spring meeting May 4. Details concerning the fun-filled get-together will be mailed directly to all parents. Mark the date on your calendar now.

EDUCATION

by DR. SAMUEL L. MEYER

ACADEMIC VICE-PRESIDENT

The following address was delivered by Dr. Samuel L. Meyer at Central Methodist Church in Stockton in observance of University of the Pacific Sunday, January 20. Nearly 200 Methodist churches across the California-Nevada Conference observed Pacific Sunday as faculty and administrative staff members and students filled the pulpits in recognition of Christian Higher Education.

On June 5, 1785, one hundred and seventy-eight years ago next June, Bishop Francis Asbury laid the cornerstone of Cokesbury College, the first Methodist college on the continent of North America. From that modest beginning at Abingdon, Maryland, the Methodist Church has developed an extensive system of higher education which extends from Anchorage, in Alaska, to Lakeland, in Florida, and from Montpelier, in Vermont, to San Diego, in California.

In the June, 1962, issue of Together, the midmonth magazine for Methodist families, there is a supplement on Methodist-related schools, colleges, and universities. Included in the list presented are eight universities, twelve schools of theology, seventy-six senior colleges, and twenty-one junior colleges. In addition to the eight universities named in the list are other distinguished institutions which were once Methodist-related but which are no longer church connected. Among these are Vanderbilt University and the University of Southern California.

Why, may we ask, has the Methodist Church demonstrated such a consuming concern, such a "splendid obsession," for education? Many reasons have been given, many answers have been suggested. Perhaps the reason may be found in the nature of the product!

In this year of 1963, what are the characteristics of the product, the graduates, of church-related colleges? Let us see!

1. The product of the church-related college is COMPETENT.

In these days, many things are said about quality education. At educational meetings, the phrase is reiterated again and again. On the campus of the church-related college or university it should never be an empty cliché. A university's main job is education and for the sake of its academic reputation all of its educational efforts must be of the best.

We agree with Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam when, speaking at a Founder's Day celebration on this very campus in 1958, he said: "The church expects its educational institutions to be educational institutions in fact, to maintain the highest of educational standards, and to be subjected to the scrutiny of properly qualified standardizing bodies . . . The Christian college is neither a rescue mission nor a social settlement, nor is it designed to be a psychiatric couch or the healing service of a revival meeting."

We agree with Dr. Kenneth I. Brown, formerly Director of the Danforth Foundation, when he observed that, "Many a church college has lost its moral right to be recognized as a Christian college by its flimsy willingness to substitute good influence for the qualities of sound, effective, competent teaching."

And we agree with Dr. John O. Gross, "Mr. Methodist College," when he wrote, "A Christian college cannot substitute piety for good education. To associate Christian education with poor education enhances neither religion nor education."

Here at Pacific, we honor and respect academic achievement! We believe that we are, first and last, an educational institution. We believe that the central focus on the campus of an institution of higher learning should be learning. A university is dedicated to the development of the mind. As has been said again and again, that is the central gift of the university experience.

Young people can go to dances, attend football games, belong to organizations, support or oppose political ideologies, champion human rights, and, at the same time, be far removed from a university campus. With the Problems and Policies Committee of the American Council on Education, here at Pacific, we believe that, "The most important thing that can happen in an institution of learning is learning: Learning to think, to relate, to do. This process, seldom easy, involves the teacher-scholar as well as the student. It derives from many factors: native curiosity and the concern to know and understand, stimulating teaching, adequate preparation of the student for the work he confronts, effective tools with which to work, and an ethos conducive to intellectual effort.

Here at Pacific, we are trying to create an "ethos," a spirit, an attitude, an atmosphere in which academic excellence plays a significant role in shaping the character of the university community. From such a climate of learning, the products of Pacific will come as young men and young women of competence!

... METHODISM'S SPLENDID OBSESSION

2. The product of the church-related college is COURAGEOUS.

There are those who describe the present generation of college youth as "beat," placid, apathetic, defeated. There is nothing unusual about that. Each year, ever since I can remember, writers have applied such terms to the current generation of college youth. It seems more obvious now than it once did because, on college and university campuses, it is creating a kind of spiritual sickness. Defeat, fear, hopelessness, despair, dissension, confusion, as well as beads, have come to be the trademarks of the so-called "campus intellectuals." This makes real scholars cringe with anguish. On some college campuses, the classroom, the publication, the lectureship, yes, even the chapel service, are used to disseminate this doctrine of "defeatism."

Let me read you a quotation: "The complacent, the multitude, the rabble have always been content with existing conditions. Their cry is a slogan that has rung down through the corridors of centuries—'What's the use of going further!' You hear that cry today. Not only in the great open spaces, in the crowded jams on city streets, in great industrial centers, but even it rings within our college walls—where least we might expect it. The majority of so-called students, content with things as they are, din the very gates of heaven with their wailing cry . . . They are satisfied; satisfied to 'get by' with their daily assignments; satisfied to perform, perfunctorily, their routine experiments; satisfied to master the required courses in higher mathematics; satisfied with life as others live it, moving to and fro on the beaten paths of civilization. They see no sense in struggling, striving, or forging ahead. Imagination stunted, ambition paralyzed, constructive energy dissipated, they welcome the slogan of the complacent, the multitude, the rabble. They join the procession of the masses."

Was the "today" mentioned in that quotation in 1963? No! Were the "so-called students" referred to members of the student generation of this academic year? No! Was the writer a crochety old man? Again—no! The paragraph I read to you was written by a college senior in the Spring of 1929 about his own student generation! Who composed the fearful, apathetic, complacent, satisfied student generation of that day? Interestingly enough, you and I, the fathers and the mothers of the student generation of this day!

To illustrate this point in somewhat lighter vein, let me read a little poem, if you will allow me to dignify it by that term, which I clipped from The Kansas City Star some years ago. It goes like this:

"My grandad notes the world's worn cogs
And says we're going to the dogs;
His grandad in his house of logs
Swore things were going to the dogs;
His dad amid the Flemish bogs
Groaned ough; We're going to the dogs;

The cave-man in his queer skin togs
Snarled Gad! We're going to the dogs;
But this is what I'd like to state
Those dogs have had an awful wait."

This is not a time of doubt, anxiety and fear; rather, it is a day of hope, confidence and opportunity. We should not turn and run from the problems which beset us; rather, we should stand and fight with the courage that is our Christian heritage!

Endowed with such courage, the product of Pacific will provide the scholars, the scientists, the businessmen, the homemakers, the educational and religious who will solve the problems of this day—tomorrow—and of all the tomorrows that will ever be!

3. The product of the church-related college is COMMITTED.

The educational system is incomplete that ignores man's spiritual development. The cultivation of the mind alone does not constitute an education—it is a fragment of education. The whole man, wisely directed and committed to the permanent values, is really our concern.

Dean Liston Pope, of the Yale University School of Divinity, has stated this problem clearly when he wrote: "Intellectual development is rudderless at best and dangerous at worst when isolated from moral convictions and personal commitments that are religious in character."

Along this same line, Bishop Fulton J. Sheen asks: "Would we say that a man was a learned mathematician if he did not know the first principles of Euclid? Would we say that a man was a profound physicist if he did not know the first principles of light, sound, and heat? Can we say that a man is truly educated who is ignorant of the first principles of life and truth and love—which is God?"

The challenge which a dangerous future presents to the young people of our day has been expressed by Rabbi Silver: "Education which stops with efficiency may prove a menace to man and to society. The most dangerous criminal may be the man who is plentifully endowed with the gifts of concentration and imagination but with no morals. The most dangerous epochs in civilization are those in which the mind of the race has outdistanced its spirit, in which the increased power of the race, made available through new discoveries and inventions, is not harnessed and guided by an equally increased ethical purpose and by higher consecrations."

Another statement which is helpful as we seek to understand the distinctive role of the church-related college or university was prepared in 1957 by representatives of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. and of the College and University Department of the National Catholic Educational Association. It went

"What I Have Learned In My 95 Years of Living"

DR. ROCKWELL D. HUNT, MR. CALIFORNIA, WAS HONORED BY A HOST OF FRIENDS FEBRUARY 3 DURING A SPECIAL ANNIVERSARY RECEPTION AND DINNER ON THE PACIFIC CAMPUS TO CELEBRATE HIS 95TH BIRTHDAY.

WITH EMPHASIS THE NOTED HISTORIAN-AUTHOR POINTED OUT THAT NOW THAT HE HAS REACHED 95, HE IS "NOT THROUGH YET" AND GAVE HIS OWN EVALUATION TO SOME OF THE SIGNIFICANT PRINCIPLES HE HAS LIVED BY IN HIS LIFETIME.

Noted writers on hand to extend their felicitations to Dr. Hunt were Mrs. Marian Garthwaite, author of children's stories, left; Mrs. Bert Roderick (Edith Moore Jarrett), writer of a high school Spanish series; and Julia Altrocchi, author of books dealing with the early West, right.

Begin early. I began going to school at five, in a small country one-room, one-teacher school, and have been going to school ever since.

Don't allow hindering conditions to stop you. They are sure to arise; but every obstacle may be overcome.

Put things away—save them. You never know when you'll wish you had them—if never, no harm done.

Organize materials: that makes them yours, makes them valuable. I now wish I had been more efficient in this particular, from an earlier date.

Preserve a true perspective. Distractions multiply; but don't let the side-shows swallow the main tent. Nothing can take the place of concentration.

Retire late, but never completely. Always have more to do than you can hope to complete; be content to leave something uncompleted.

Search out the meaning and purpose of your life. Be your own master—make everything bend to your central purpose, directly or indirectly.

Three sons of the distinguished guest and their wives shared in the birthday celebration. They are, left to right, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hunt, Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hunt, Palos Verdes; and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hunt, Oakdale.

Alumni Clubs

LOS ANGELES CLUB—President Herm Saunders '40 reports his group has added after-dinner dancing to the March 15 program at La Canada Country Club. American composer Roy Harris will join his wife, Pianist Johana Harris, and President Burns as special guests for the occasion. Reservations are being made with Mrs. Joe Tudor, 5180 Princess Anne Road, La Canada.

STANISLAUS-MERCED CLUB—A family picnic at the Modesto Racquet Club this summer is one of the first projects being undertaken by the new club president, Roger Wickman '52, elected to office at the January 23 dinner meeting. Details for the fun-fest will be announced later.

NAPA-SOLANO CLUB—Clayton Long '40, principal at Redwood Junior High School, hopes to encourage all Pacific alums in the area to turn out en masse for the big spring meeting May 16. President Burns and Johana Harris, concert pianist from the Conservatory, will be special guests at the gala affair.

CLAYTON LONG

STOCKTON CLUB—Provost W. B. Martin of Raymond College will discuss the theory "The Way of the Egghead is Hard" at the March 1 meeting at Raymond College. Stockton alums will be treated to dessert and coffee as well as a tour of the first cluster college, according to Don Webb '50, president.

SACRAMENTO CLUB—A change of date to March 23 at the Sacramento Inn has been announced by Chairman Bill Wirt. Following an informal social hour, alums of the Capitol city will have the opportunity to visit with special guests from the University beginning at 7:30 p.m.

MONTEREY PENINSULA CLUB—The inviting setting at Asilomar will be the gathering place for Monterey and Santa Cruz Pacific alumni March 22. Dr. Martin, head of Raymond College, will be the featured speaker at the 7 o'clock dinner meeting.

SAN JOSE CLUB—Dr. Ray McCall, president of the Pacific alumni group in the San Jose area, will be one of many, he hopes, who will turn out for the final varsity basketball game of the season Saturday, March 9. Pacific's boosters plan a get-together following the Tiger-San Jose State College tangle in the Civic Auditorium.

A New Face

There is a new philosophy at the campus alumni office—that a Pacific grad should be an alumnus early in life.

And to implement this "instant alumni" program, Larry Leasure, talented musician and student leader, has been added to the staff as assistant manager.

Larry is in charge of a new student-alumni relations program designed to stimulate interest in Alumni Association activities and to encourage students to take part in these activities early in their alumni life.

There has been noticeable interest in alumni programs on the part of younger graduates, Jerry Kirsten '47, Pacific Alumni president, commented. The 21-year-old senior from Santa Barbara whose Pacific career has been one of music leadership, campus activities and scholarships, seems ideal to implement the program.

A former student of another Pacific grad, Henry Brubeck, who is head of the instrumental music program for the Santa Barbara school system, young Leasure arrived on campus as a freshman with a reputation of proven musical talent. The baritone has cut Capital Records as part of the team, "Frankie and Larry", and completed a 1½-month promotional tour from Canada to Mexico.

He discontinued the Capitol contract to engage in a whirlwind campus life. From a dance band in high school, he shifted to organizing a dance orchestra at Pacific, the Pacific Jazz Sextet.

The handsome drum major has strutted at the head of Pacific's band for three years, and has just completed his third year as chairman for the Band Frolic.

The native Ohioan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Everett Leasure of Santa Barbara. His father is executive vice-president of H. C. Stevens Corporation.

Scholarships have been awarded for both musical proficiency and scholastic achievement to the energetic young man. For the past three years he has directed the Pacific Pep Band under a fellowship.

Larry's name appears in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities for 1963. Add to his list of campus activities the Pacific Jazz Workshop, Rally commissioner, Blue Key honorary, Phi Mu Alpha-Sinfonia, Phi Sigma Kappa, and Student California Teachers Association. He will graduate in June with a degree from the School of Education.

The Board of the Alumni Association has appointed a student-alumni committee, headed by Cornelius M. "Bud" Sullivan '55 to develop an alumni relations program for students on campus. Larry will also work on this committee. Other committee members are students, Robert Sauers, Healdsburg; Ben Kwong, Menlo Park; Howard Campbell, Great Falls, Mont.; and Meredith Muller, Oakland. Alumni members are Joan Ulrich and Paul Berger.

Spring Football

by RON REINA, Sports Information Director

With an eye to the long-range future the University of the Pacific began 20 days of spring practice Thursday, February 7 with 49 footballers turning out.

Culminating the drills on Saturday, March 9, with the annual Varsity-Alumni Game in Pacific Memorial Stadium, the Tigers will work once each day at 4:00 p.m. except for Saturdays and holidays at 10:00 a.m.

The main task of coach John Rohde will be to fill the shoes of 19 departing seniors with only seven returning lettermen, junior college transfers and freshman squad graduates. The job will not be easy. The departure of performers like Roy Williams, John Gamble, Aaron Youngblood and Jack Sparrow, to name a few, has left Pacific with only a handful of experienced players.

Returning Lettermen All Linemen

The rebuilding chore will include an ambitious freshman program in the fall pointing towards the 1964-65-66 seasons. The 1963 Tiger varsity will be small in number, green in experience at many positions and lacking depth in the backfield. All seven returning lettermen are linemen.

Heading the list of returnees is left tackle Don Shackelford, 6-3, 240 pound senior from Tulare. Don has started every game at Pacific and has been rated by the coaching staff as the most consistent performer the past two seasons.

In 1962 he was chosen first team Methodist All-America, and honorable mention All-Coast. In 1961, as a sophomore, he was scouted by professional teams as early as the third game of the season. He has been praised by opposing coaches as well as players and was named on numerous all-opponent teams.

JC Transfers Fill Quarterback Spots

With most of the backfield lost, JC transfers will have to do the quarterbacking. Mike Hair, Alamo, squadman who played right half last season, will take over at fullback. Another squadman, Smiley Verduzco, Pittsburg, moves into a halfback slot.

Outstanding junior college transfers include Bob Irwin from the 1961 Bakersfield Junior College Rose Bowl team; Tom Strain, John Billecci and Van Boschetti from Diablo Valley JC; Simon Molini and John Balla from Stockton College, and Ernie Zermenio from Hartnell JC.

Up from the Frosh are two outstanding ex-Stockton prepsters in Eddie Simas and Vern Garrison. Simas, first prepster to run a 9.6 100 yard dash in the Stockton area, will bring his speed to the left halfback position while Garrison, a Los Angeles Shrine Game performer moves into a tackle spot. He has been described by line coach Tiny Campora as another future Pacific line great in the tradition of Bill Striegel, Bob Denton, John Nisby, Gene Cronin, Duane Putnam and Carl Kammerer.

Many of the above named alumni along with Jack Meeks, Willie Hector, Sid Hall, Tom Flores, Kenny Castles, Willie Richardson can put the Tiger varsity to a stern test on March 9 at the annual Varsity-Alumni game. This year's contest will be played in Pacific Memorial Stadium at 1:30 with many door prizes given away during the afternoon.

Admissions

Dean

Receives

H.H.D. Honor

Elliott J. Taylor, dean of admissions, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Humanities at Illinois Wesleyan University February 6 during the institution's 113th Founder's Day convocation.

The honorary degree was conferred by President Lloyd M. Bertholf, dean of College of the Pacific from 1948 until he took the administrative post in Bloomington 10 years later.

Dr. Taylor graduated from Pacific in 1928 and did additional study at the University of Vienna and Columbia University. He has served as assistant to the president of Collegio Monte Mario in Rome, Italy; assistant director of the Near East Foundation in Albania for six years; and was teacher, director of counseling and acting dean at Reedley Junior College for eight years.

While at Pacific, Dr. Taylor has developed an outstanding program of college-managed tours, overseas and domestic, for which academic credit may be earned. He also holds the position of scholarship officer and coordinator of veterans affairs at Pacific.

In Kiwanis International, Taylor is a past governor of the California-Nevada-Hawaii district. He belongs to several scholarly societies and fraternities, including the National Education Association, Phi Delta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Pi Gamma Mu and Pi Kappa Delta.

Pacific Seniors Recognized By Fellowship Foundation

Two Stockton seniors at the University of the Pacific, John P. Tubbs and Gary A. Wiler, have earned places on the Honorable Mention list for Woodrow Wilson Fellowships leading to careers in college teaching.

The two students were nominated for the Woodrow Wilson national competition by their department chairmen last fall, and in January were interviewed by the western regional committee of the Fellowship Foundation. They were judged on their superior academic records, their autobiographies, the nature of their professors' recommendations and performances in their interviews. Tubbs is a psychology major and Wiler is specializing in political science.

Basketball Coach Van Sweet Resigns

Van Sweet, head coach of the University of the Pacific basketball team for 11 years, has announced his resignation, effective at the end of the current season.

No successor has been named for the man who also wears the hats of golf coach and stadium manager. Sweet plans to leave the field of coaching entirely and devote his efforts in the area of consulting and guidance. He will receive his credentials in pupil personnel services this summer.

Sweet, a graduate of Baylor University who received his master's degree at Pacific, came to Stockton in 1947 to coach Stockton College. He coached the junior college to a championship in the Big Eight before coming to Pacific in 1952.

"I would have liked to have coached the present boys through their senior year, but I decided to give the new coach a chance with some material coming back," Sweet said. Two sophomores and seven juniors will be returning to Pacific next season.

Class of 1927 Establishes Permanent Fund for Pacific

The Class of 1927 has announced the establishment of a five-year plan to build a "Class of 1927 Permanent Fund" for use in the Pacific program.

Sentiment was expressed at the 35-year Class Reunion that the Class of 1927 should take this means to continue indefinitely as an active participant in the activities and growth of its university, said B. E. Claypool, Sacramento, chairman for the project.

Final decision on the use to which the Fund will be put will be made at the 40-year Class Reunion in 1967.

"The fund should be built to an amount which will provide an income adequate to accomplish a purpose consistent with the standards and ideals of the class; a purpose which will secure respect for the class, both from its members and from those in future years with whom the Class of 1927 will be directly and tangibly linked," according to Fund committee members.

Suggested purposes for the Fund have included one or more partial or complete annual scholarships, a student loan fund, an annual lecture series, the purchase of furnishings for residence halls, and the purchase of library books.

Other Fund committee members are James H. Corson, Millbrae; Charles W. Easterbrook, Porterville; M. P. Stark, San Jose; and Henderson E. McGee, Stockton.

Campus News Notes

Pharmacy Students Win Award

Second place award in the Pharmacy Colleges category of the 1962 National Pharmacy Week Window Display contest went to the University of the Pacific student chapter of the American Pharmaceutical Association, it was announced by the executive director of the sponsoring association in Washington, D. C.

The award will be presented to Pacific representatives at the association's annual meeting in Miami May 12-17. Student officers for the Pacific chapter are Willis Corkern, Las Vegas, president; Gordon Peterson, Turlock, vice-president; Shirley Alves, Madera, secretary; and William Soares, San Joaquin, treasurer. Dr. Charles W. Roscoe is faculty advisor.

Geological Institute Lecturer

Dr. John C. Crowell, assistant professor of geology at UCLA, will speak to the Stockton and campus communities March 6, 7 and 8, under the sponsorship of the American Geological Institute.

The noted geologist will discuss the San Andreas fault and related phenomenal movements at a public meeting Thursday. Other discussions and talks will be held with student groups and at an informal faculty dinner during his campus visit.

Dr. Crowell, a native of Pennsylvania, received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Texas and his master's and Ph.D. degrees from UCLA. Receiving both Guggenheim and Fulbright Fellowships, the authority on structure and general geology served as a resident professor in Austria. He also has been an assistant geologist for Shell Oil Company. His affiliations include the American Geological Society and the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

Highway Conference Nears

Baun Hall, the location of the School of Engineering on the Pacific campus, will be the information center for the Sixth Annual Highway Conference March 5, 6 and 7.

The three-day program is being sponsored by the Department of Civil Engineering, School of Engineering, under the direction of Dean Henderson E. McGee. Registration fee for the Conference is $3 to cover the partial cost of publishing and mailing the Conference Proceedings to each registrant.

Further information is available by calling HOWard 4-7781, ext. 57, or writing Dean Henderson E. McGee, University of the Pacific.

Homecoming—October 12, 1963

Homecoming 1963 at University of the Pacific will be October 12, it was voted this month by members of the Board of Directors, Pacific Alumni Association.

The Homecoming football game will be with Fresno State College. Keeping in existence the same general format as for previous Homecoming festivities, committees to carry out the program will be announced soon, according to Donald E. Payne, executive manager.

Chris Kjeldsen Memorial Trophy

The Chris Kjeldsen perpetual memorial trophy which will be awarded annually to Pacific's most inspirational basketball player, was presented to the University by the Sacramento Pacific Quarterback Club earlier this month.

As chairman for the project, former Pacific athlete Bud Watkins presented the trophy at the Pacific-Loyola game to Dr. Paul Stagg, Pacific's athletic director, and Kenny Kjeldsen, son of the late Pacific basketball and swimming coach.

Summer Research Grant

A $16,500 National Science Foundation grant has been received by Pacific for the support of a summer research program in marine biology, paleontology and systematic zoology at the Marine Station at Dillon Beach. The research program, under the direction of Dr. Joel W. Hedgpeth, will be supported by the grant for a three-year period.

like this: "The Christian college offers to our generation an interpretation of the whole of knowledge, a way of life and learning, and a sense of earthly vocation and eternal purpose, without which science and arts, inventions and technology may enslave and destroy mankind."

The importance of the continuance of such institutions has been emphasized by Dr. Ralph W. Sockman when he said, "If we are to safeguard our freedom, we must have men whose oath we can trust in court and whose word we can also trust in the marketplace. We need men who are responsible enough to bear their own burdens and good enough to bear one another's burdens. These church-related colleges have given Godly ideals to our nation's youth, furthered social reforms, trained political and religious leaders." Then Dr. Sockman goes on to say, "Many of these fine Christian colleges are today fighting for their lives—if they fail America will fail."

A Christian college cannot take lightly its responsibility to be Christ's witness. In my judgment, the platform set up by the founder of the American University at Beirut, Lebanon, should be adopted by all church colleges and universities. It reads: "This college is for all conditions of men without regard to color, race, nationality, or religion. A man, black, white, or yellow, may enter here and enjoy all of the advantages of this institution and go out believing in one God, in many gods, or in none. But it will be impossible for anyone to continue with us long without knowing what we believe to be the truth and our reasons for that belief."

If we adhere to that profession of purpose, we can surely expect that most, though certainly not all, of the products of Pacific will leave this beautiful place deeply and permanently committed to the Christian faith!

COMPETENT, COURAGEOUS, COMMITTED—these terms we have applied to the products of the University of the Pacific! We believe they are applicable. You will notice that each begins with the letter "C." You know full well that in the expression, "Christian education," the word "Christian" is an adjective modifying "education." As such, it signifies a special attribute which is not a part of the thing itself. When a college or university takes upon itself the name "Christian," it must, of necessity, be different from other colleges and universities. People expect more from it than from institutions that make no such claim!

By selecting the three terms, "COMPETENT," "COURAGEOUS," "COMMITTED," each beginning with the letter "C," as does the word "Christian," and using each as an adjective modifying the "product of Pacific," we want you to see that the University of the Pacific, as a Christian university, gives the word, "Christian," the modifier of "education," its full significance. It testifies that Pacific shares, with the rest of Methodism, its "splendid obsession!"

Pacific Associates Report

BENEFACTOR WALTER RAYMOND PASSES

University of the Pacific benefactor Walter Raymond, for whom the first cluster college was named, died January 30 in Woodland Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Raymond was described as a man with a vision by President Burns as he paid tribute to the devoted churchman during final services.

Mr. Raymond was a man of the soil—a man who cleared the land, developed it, and worked along side the man in the field, lending a helping hand whenever it was needed. Looking into the future, this man who was touched with greatness, has provided for the education of future generations, and will continue to effect the lives of many others, Dr. Burns added.

Mr. Raymond deeded land in the Knight's Landing area to the university in 1960, resulting in the opening of Raymond College last September. Other Raymond properties are now being managed by Pacific. George Wilson, a Pacific regent is assisting with administration.

Executive Meeting

Henderson E. McGee, dean of the School of Engineering, and Dr. Marc Jantzen, dean of the School of Education, will give special presentations at the March 4 executive meeting of Pacific Associates.

The luncheon meeting will begin at 12:15 o'clock in Anderson Hall North Dining Room.

Parents Newsletter

This issue of the Parents Newsletter is coming to you through the courtesy of the Pacific Review. For those parents who are new to Pacific this semester we should indicate that we circulate quarterly a newsletter with information concerning the undergraduate program at the University.

The beginning of a new semester is frequently a time of reappraisal, particularly for the freshman student. He has had a semester of University work and has been evaluated by several members. What's more, he has had a chance to evaluate his own progress and perhaps re-orient himself to new goals. He has also had an opportunity to check his academic accomplishment against the results of his testing program. This is the time when students could well confer with their advisers concerning either their progress or their lack of it.

Each student now has an academic record which is reviewed by the Personnel Committee semi-annually. If his average drops below a "C" level he is placed on probation; all such students have been notified of their standing and of course it is expected that they will pass this information on to their parents. We do not send duplicate notices to parents for we feel that the more mature approach is to make the individual student responsible for his own record.

Counseling Center Maintained

It is well known that the pressures of University life do produce severe tensions and other mental health problems among students. To help care for these problems we maintain a Counseling Center to assist students to make progress toward psychological maturity and to help them achieve the goals of the academic community. The Center maintains this principle of confidentiality of information and the freedom from "advice giving." Of course, the student who seeks this service should not expect answers to all problems or quick cures for troubles.

Available at the Center are the following services:

Psychodiagnostic testing — A testing program designed to provide clues to the source of a student's emotional, social or academic maladjustments.

Counseling — For a limited number of students personal counseling will be available to help them understand and deal with emotional problems. Referral to other therapeutic services on campus and in the community will also be made.

Referral — In many cases the Counseling Center can offer direct referral to specialists or to agencies which specialize in the area in which the student needs help. These include the Reading Clinic, the Speech and Hearing Clinic and a Psychiatric Consultant.

We welcome inquiries from parents so that we can correspond on a more personal level. If there is more information which you would like to have about the progress of your son or daughter, please feel free to write.
